Autonomy with a twist

Exhibition, Terra-Delft Gallery
From 21 March - 18 April 2015

Diagonal and Flowerbox series, autonomous/functional.

In the Diagonal Series, Borst deftly and consistently shifts square pieces 45 degrees, creating architectonic forms reminiscent of architecture and tile patterns such as in the Alhambra. The shifts are accentuated by glazing those parts in different colours. Hand-thrown insert cylinders serve as flower holders, making these autonomous pieces functional.

Flowerbox, These objects display Borst's fascination for the square. It is a square box from which one-fourth has been 'cut away', and the black free-standing flower holder can be placed in the resulting open section.
